 St. Jean Baptiste Society meets at 57 Valley Street.
 Willimantic Woman's Club meets at their room, No. 103 Main Street (afternoon).
 Violet Rebekah Lodge, No. 27, meets in I. O. O. F. Hall, 807 Main Street.

Statistics of fires in Willimantic during February since the records were first begun in 1917 show that the month just passed stood second in the number of fires with 19 fires against 17 fires in 1918. The corresponding losses were $280 in 1920 and $1,000 in 1918. The records of the four years were as follows:

Year	Fires	Loss
1917	10	$200
1918	17	$1,000
1919	10	$200
1920	19	$280

The conditions under which the fires were put to combat the fires of 1920 were the worst in the history of the department and several of the fires which resulted in only small affairs would have reached dangerous proportions if it had not been for the efficient work of the firemen, who made quick time in spite of travel conditions.

Of these 19 fires, calls for blazes in chimneys were in a majority, but a comparison in the losses in these fires shows that the average damage per fire was the smallest in the records of the fire department.

Following is a summary of average losses:

Year	Fires	Ave. Loss
1917	10	$20.00
1918	17	$58.82
1919	10	$20.00
1920	19	$14.74

This small average loss per fire in 1920 is due purely to the cooperation of the public with the fire department, shown in the way in which response came after Chief Wade U. Webster called that all alarms for fires be sent in accurately so that no time would be lost in getting apparatus to the fire. Another factor contributing greatly to the small average was the foresight of the fire department in having apparatus loaded on sleighs, thus making it possible to reach any fire the auto trucks could not handle. Chief Webster appreciates the co-operation received from the public and believes that the number of fires can be kept at a small figure if methods adopted in the past are followed out in the future.

At the afternoon meeting this plan had been suggested and on Willimantic always put a good baseball team on the diamond each summer there seemed to be no reason why this city could not have a team in the league. Each department of the company was entitled to one vote at this meeting, but as the meeting was open to all employees there was a large attendance of those interested in the game.

Evidence that animals in this part of the country are having hard times in securing a sufficient quantity of food is shown by the increasing number of deer that are finding their way into the city and its vicinity. Sunday afternoon a deer was seen walking down Jackson street and entering into several yards. The family disappeared after a deer had been in the neighborhood. Again during that same afternoon a deer was seen on High street. The third deer was seen Monday morning on Main street. Farmers living in this section have been stating that deer have become more and more daring since the snow covered the ground, over the woods and fields and other animals are unable to find the food they desire in the country and so their search for food are invading city yards.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Strand Theatre.

The Strand's performance is the best yet seen. It is very interesting and amusing. Shee, who is well known as an escape artist, is featured at the Strand. Shee makes her several different escapes in full view of the audience. Shee is seen suspended ten feet above the stage, tied up in a regulation straitjacket which she escapes from. This is a spectacular act as well as sensational. Don't miss it. O'Brien & Havel, a man and woman, give a comedy variety novelty sketch in a full stage setting. The Elvera Sisters give a classy exhibition of their supplest in an acrobatic dancing novelty. This is the only act of its kind on the American stage today. Munroe Salisbury, the Mansfield of the screen, is shown in a six-part special attraction entitled The Man in the Moonlight. Salisbury takes the part of Rossignol, the nightingale, who is handsome, daring, with a weird power over men and women, the model feared man and admired outlaw that ever troubled the northwestern mounted police, enticed the bride to be of the man who was sent to hunt him to death, and by his magnetic personality drew her with him to the Pass of Death at midnight. An up-to-date weekly will close the Strand's big show.

Breed Theatre.

Viola Dana heads the bill at the Breed theatre today in The Willow Tree, a beautiful Screen Classic Inc. production. This picture is regarded as one of the real screen novelties of the day. The picture tells a love story of special appeal to women as it concerns a woman's sacrifice for the man she loved, and the subject has been superbly handled by the star director and producer. The Willow Tree was the dramatic sensation of the season when it was first produced on Broadway by Colman & Harris and in its translation to the screen the beautiful fantasy of the play has been improved. For the second feature of this bill the only official and original exploit of the famous German Submarine U-35 will be seen. This is the most sensational picture ever made showing actual sinking of ships on the high seas. Louise Fazenda in Only a Farmer's Daughters a two-reel laugh, and the Pathe News make up the remainder of the bill.

Scarlet Days at the Davis.

What the New York Times said about Scarlet Days, now being shown at the Davis theatre:
 Scarlet Days stands out by reason of being a production by D. W. Griffith, many of the direct acts of imagination and imagination with all of Mr. Griffith's masterly mixing of the ingredients of romance. It is a story of California in '49, when men's thoughts were of gold.

Richard Barthelmess, the young star of the picture, plays the part of Don Alvarez, a Spanish "bandit king," and therefore handles the leading part with a pluck and an even surer marksmanship with the women—a character that is actually to have lived in those glorious days when the picture was made. Mr. Griffith is handicapped by his story, but that only gives him a chance to rise above it. It is one of his best pieces of work, being so simple and sincere and one of the few examples on the screen of the scarlet days in the west that don't make a same man see red. Mr. Barthelmess does a most effective work that stamps him as a real "comer," able to register his points effectively with or without a cigarette.

If you miss this picture you surely will miss it.

The other feature is The Fear Market, a 6-part special production, starring Alice Brady. The School House is a comedy picture for Sunday. A comedy picture for Sunday.

Ed. Wynn Carnival Coming to Davis.
 The Ed Wynn Carnival, an up-to-date musical comedy, is coming to the Davis theatre under the management of E. C. Whitney, will be presented at the Davis theatre Thursday, March 4, coming here direct from the Theatre, Boston.

This latest addition to the musical comedy stage is announced as a lively and jany entertainment, spotted with clever specialties and genuine humor. It is a most catchy tunes, good singing, dancing and acrobatics. There are several gorgeous stage settings—chief of which are The Old Japan scene, The Flower Em-pire, the scene in The Desert, and The Carnival Scene.

With commendable good taste, Mr. Wynn has selected the most brilliant of his own radiance in the stellar role, by surrounding himself with notably gifted players. Edna Whistler, a beautiful woman with a splendid soprano voice, is the prima donna. Lilian Fitzgerald, a clever little singer and mimic from the Keith circuit, has an important part in the revue. Trilix Jenney, premier dancer, is also in the bill. Ray Miller and His Black and White Melody Boys; J. Harry Jenkins, Rezal and Moore, and The Maykars are also included in the company that might, with entire propriety, be classed as an all-star cast.

The special orchestra will be under the personal direction of Antonio Bafunno, composer of notes. There will be a large chorus of pretty and talented young women. Seat sale today.
